Why Berlin?

Berlin, a vibrant and unique city. This is where the still recent history of the 20th century meets the dynamism and modernity of a great metropolis. The city is never the same, always under constant changes: physical, structural and styles. Punished by the consequences of the great wars, it rose again. The old city, split for so long time and living under oppression, has today become singular, rich in history and symbol of freedom.

Located in the heart of Europe, the capital of the richest country in the continent serves as stage for numerous cultural attractions, festivals and artistic events. Cosmopolitan and always open to a world of opportunities, Berlin is indeed the place for those who dream big: Einstein, Marx and Bowie lived here.

Its neighborhoods, all of them with very special characteristics, make Berlin a city with innovative and alternative lifestyle. Experiencing these differences enriches and helps to understand the complexity of such an awesome place.

With many language schools, Berlin offers a great opportunity for those who need to learn German, either to study in one of the great German universities, for the everyday and professional growth, or simply for personal future.

On the side of entertainment, the range of options is vast. The several parks around the city gather thousands of people to practice sports, cultural fairs, picnics or simply enjoy the sunny days. Good cinemas, theaters and modern malls are great options for the coldest days, not to mention many other touristic attractions around the city, such as excellent museums, some of them with the best European collections.

Summing up, Berlin is where youth breathes all the modern art that urban nature is capable of producing.

Without question, the nightlife also deserves to be mentioned. With great options of restaurants, bars and clubs, the city contemplates establishments often elected as the best in the world, competing with other big cities such as London, Paris and New York.

We could keep on listing many other good reasons for you to come to Berlin, as we believe that here is where things happen.

And Go Easy Berlin will be delighted to welcome you in this new universe!
